Greetings TLPCA! I hope everyone is having a prosperous Holiday Season and are enjoying a safe and healthy conclusion to one of the strangest years we have ever experienced. This pandemic has challenged all of our companies and families in ways that we could never have imagined. Supply chain and material shortages, price increases, delayed and cancelled projects, vaccination protocols, and most importantly keeping your friends, family, and employees safe and healthy have proven to be hurdles we have all had to endure. Thank goodness for this organization and the community it provides. Personally, I have been able to pick up the phone and contact suppliers and vendors all over the state whenever I needed hard-to-find products and could always count on our members to come through. Not just materials, but advice on dealing with city inspectors and new code requirements.

To update the membership, the Board has authorized a complete re-vamp of our website and we are currently negotiating to get that process under way. It is our intention to have a fully functioning website that not only provides industry news and education but also will serve as a pay hub for all of our events and services. Additionally, we intend to link with all of the major social media sites and will actively promote our industry and members. It is time we jumped into the 21st century and become proactive promoting what we do, who we are, and what our membership represents. Stay tuned as we are trying to ramp this up as quickly as possible. We will need participation from the entire association to help these efforts reap rewards.

A favorite analogy of mine is that there is a reason our windshields are so much bigger than our rear-view mirrors. The future in front of us is wide open, far broader, and much clearer than the past that we are looking back on.

I look forward to a promising 2022 and wish you and your families a Merry Christmas and Happy Holidays.

David Mouton – 2021-2022 TLPCA President
